RealMed Launches New Website

RealMed's new website reinforces its dedication to customer service and support

INDIANAPOLIS, July 1, 2009 -- RealMed, a leader in web-based revenue cycle management solutions for health care providers, hospitals and payers, announced the launch of its new website. The new website gives visitors more functionality and a rewarding and informative experience. RealMed provides basic and detailed information about its real-time provider and payer services, and its service packages and their individual features and benefits. The site offers the flexibility to view general service information and to drill down to the specifics. It also reports industry and RealMed news to inform readers of influential health care trends. Sean Kilpatrick, Director of Strategic Projects at RealMed, spoke of the driving force behind the new website. "RealMed prides itself in its easy to use features and its unique, personalized customer service support. We feel the new website does a great job of demonstrating that philosophy."
